CITY SCHOOLS OPEN WITH LARGE ENROLLMENT MANY BOYS WITHIN DRAFT AGE ENTER.

No Action Announced as to Course Government Will Pursue as to Registrants.

When the clock struck 8:30 Monday morning, the old school bells in the various buildings throughout the city rang, ding-dong, dong, and after a long vacation the girls and boys filed into the buildings. They were assigned to their respective class rooms and made preparations for their new school supt. C. H. Winder of the Chattanoga public schools, was unable to make any estimate as to the number of pupils who were enrolled during the day, however he stated that the total would exceed that of last year's report.

W. T. Robinson, the principal of the Chattanooga High school, was kept busy all during the forenoon and the greater part of the afternoon enrolling pupils, most of whom were young men within the draft age. In fact, Mr. Robinson stated that he could not give figures, but the high school would have considerably more young men this year than the term of 1916-17. While these young men are making preparations to go to school this year they have not been assured definitely that they will not be drafted right out when their numbers are

Many of the students have made inquiry during the past week at the superintendent's office, but Mr. Winder was unable to advise them as to the course the government would take. He has sent a wire to O. P. Claxton, U. S. commissioner of education, and has been informed from the department that the matter is being considered now, but that it had not been settled.
Therefore many of the young men are anxiously awaiting word from Washington. It is thought by local educators that the war department will give the young men in the high schools the same considerations as those in the colleges throughout the United States.

An organization has been formed throughout the country which is known as the students' army training corps. The young men who belong to this and who are going to college are automatically placed in Class 5, and the draft board will not call them as long as they are members of this corps. The pupils who are in this corps must take some course that will fit them for relilitary service, such as medicine, engineering, chemistry, psychology, otc. They register as to what studies they are taking and are then permitted to complete their courses. Boys 18 years and over, who wish to attend mitted to complete their courses. Boys 18 years and over, who wish to attend school and take something that will assist them in a military way afterwards, will no doubt be permitted to do so, is the opinion of those interested. However, if they are not in achool, they will, of course, come under the draft when their order number is

Various rumors have been current throughout the city to the effect that the schools this year would not have corps of teachers, as a number om had accepted government po-s. Mr. Winder says that the pubols have been affected by the war the same as every other public institution and that they had given up some of their best teachers to the gov-erament, but that they would start with full corp of teachers as the vacancies ad been filled without very much difhape, and as far as is known, prove adequate to accommodate High school, where a number of the classes will be held. The total enrollclasses will be held. The total enroll-ment last year at the end of the first month's session was 7,465, and it is ex-sected that the figures will reach up in the 8,000-mark this year.

RED CROSS CONVALESCENT HOME IS SICK SOLDIERS' "CLUB-HOUSE"

New Building to be Presented to Col. Havercamp Friday Provides Cheerful Lounging Place for Boys During Tedious Interim Between Hospital and Field.

Built in the shape of a huge red cross, painted pure white with red chimneys and a red cross over each of the entrances, the Red Cross Convalescent home is one of the most attractive of the many new structures at Camp Forrest. The building stands on the hill just north of Fort Oglethorpe circle, above the red brick hospital which in peace times was the only hospital at the post. It commands a beautiful panoramic view, ideally

She impresses the visitor as a capable administrator, while a very short stay in the building leaves no doubt of her great sympathy for the "boys" to whom she ministers and of their appreciation of her.
